

Practice Profile

Ria is a bright and tenacious advocate and experienced junior in serious multi-handed trials.

Her practice includes a wide range of offences including murder (as led junior), manslaughter, serious and organised crime, financial crime, firearms, drugs, serious violence, and sexual offences.

She is highly skilled in identifying and advancing legal arguments and works tirelessly in seeking the best outcomes for her clients. She has a no-nonsense approach to advice and is thorough in her case preparation.

Ria recently completed a secondment to the Post Office Ltd where she provided advice in relation to 'Horizon' appeals, oversaw all internal aspects of post-conviction disclosure and liaised with the MoJ in the months prior to the introduction of legislation exonerating those convicted on the basis of 'Horizon' evidence.

Ria has also conducted review work for the Post Office and in relation to the Grenfell Tower Inquiry.

Ria is reliable, diligent and extremely personable. Prior to joining the Bar, she worked as a paralegal and accredited Police Station Representative at a Solicitors firm. Her client care is second to none.
